Hospital

The Surgery Department at Metropolitan Veterinary Hospital (located in Copley, Ohio) is always looking for RVTs or RVT students who love working with a supportive and fun-loving team and have a strong desire to learn and grow as a technician. Within our practice family, technicians will be encouraged to utilize their extensive training and will be fostered to learn and experience more than they might imagine; from performing phlebotomy and placing IV catheters, to giving epidurals and monitoring anesthesia, to providing excellent client communication and education. New and experienced technicians will be given the structured support and training they need to comfortably and confidently become knowledge and skill leaders within their profession. Both the Surgery Department and Metropolitan Veterinary Hospital foster an inclusive team-oriented culture. A competitive wage (with regular increases for advancement in skills and seniority), excellent benefits, and a great work environment await an excellent candidate like you. For us, it is about both the pets AND the people.
